FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Hello ECEA family!

Happy Spring everyone! I wanted to take a moment to thank all the new and old exhibitors that competed to the April horse show! I think we had a great success! The May 7th show is approaching quickly so be sure to be ready: enter early, sign up to volunteer, check out the patterns. Links to these things are provided here as well as our website and Facebook page. Also, be sure to check out our ECEA graduates and scholarship winners! We wish these kids luck in their future and are honored they chose to be a part of ECEA throughout their youth horse show days. For those that don't know, a portion of every grounds fee goes toward a scholarship fund, so all of you are helping to fund the future for our horse kids! See y'all May 7.
Keep your heels down,

Julie Hinz, ECEA President

From Lone Star Cowboy Church

The insurance policy for Lone Star Cowboy Church does not allow them to have dogs on-site.

All dogs will need to be left at home.

ECEA Awards Three Nancy Jessup Scholarships in 2022

The Board of Directors and members of the Ellis County Equine Association are pleased to announce the recipients of the 2022 Nancy Jessup Scholarship in the amount of $1,000 each are Brylee Tucker, Mikayla Venable, and Sadie Hinz.

Tucker is a 2022 graduate of Hillsboro High School. She has been a member of ECEA for 7 years and has earned the Nancy Jessup Sportsmanship Buckle twice. She plans to attend Hill College in the Fall and major in Animal Science with a plan to eventually transfer to Texas Tech University or Tarleton State University. Brylee says that horses are her life and that she has been fortunate to have been raised in part within ECEA. “I love being a part of this association, this show family, these amazing animals, an instructor who believes in me, and other riders that support me,” said Tucker in her application essay.

Venable is a 2022 graduate of Waxahachie Global High School. She has been a member of ECEA since she began showing at around 2 years old. Venable plans to attend Hill College in the Fall. While she has enjoyed many success and buckles through the years of showing ECEA she credits the club and its members for continually teaching her new things. “Someone once told me that if you think you know everything, it’s time to sell your horse – meaning you never know everything. ECEA was a big part of my understanding of that,” said Venable in her application essay.

Hinz is a 2022 graduate of Italy High School. She has been a member of ECEA for 18 years and is currently serving as the youth club reporter. Hinz plans to attend Stephen F. Austin in the Fall and major is Sports Business. While she has enjoyed many high points and year-end championships over the years in ECEA, returning to shows with students of her own has given her a new sense of pride.“Watching my student go out in the show ring and execute a pattern really gives me a new perspective on things. Watching them win is almost as fun as winning myself,” said Hinz in her application essay.

The scholarship is in memory of Nancy Jessup, one of the original members of the Ellis County Equine Association which was founded in Waxahachie in 1984. Jessup served as an ECEA Club President and was very active with the youth in the organization. A portion of horse show fees from each entry goes toward the scholarship fund. ECEA is currently hosting horse shows at Lone Star Cowboy Church of Red Oak. For more information on the local horse shows and club activities, visit www.elliscountyequine.org or the club's Facebook group.
